TEXAS CAPITAL BANK TAKES TEXANS ON COWBOY ADVENTURE AROUND THE GLOBE

DALLAS -- Texas Capital Bank is helping to transport Texans to four continents, spanning 1500 years along one unbroken trail to explore the cowboy culture and way of life. The Bank is the statewide presenting sponsor of "Ride Around the World: A Cowboy Adventure," a narrative documentary currently showing on IMAX and other giant screen theaters in Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Texas Capital Bank customer Trinity Films produced and created the movie. The award-winning television documentary filmmakers traveled to remote areas of Argentina, Canada, Chile, Mexico, Morocco, Spain, as well as Texas to observe and film the development of the horse and cattle culture from its earliest roots. The result is an educational movie that offers a panoramic view of the cowboy experience and his daily life that begins before dawn and includes the round-ups, brandings, births, training and rodeos that have influenced Western civilization for hundreds of years.

"It was natural fit for us to sponsor this film. As a Texas-grown bank, we appreciate this movie because it delves into our Texas cowboy heritage and celebrates the various cultures that contributed to that heritage," said George Jones, president and chief executive officer of Texas Capital Bank. "And it's great to have the opportunity to support our customer Trinity Films, which has a terrific track record of making outstanding documentary movies."
